ANXIOUSLY WAITING for the "Going! Going! Gone!" by the auctioneer Thursday at Webster School is 9-year-old Sherry Richardson, a fourth grader. She had made the highest bid on a Dukes of Hazzard poster and eventually was awarded the poster. Proceeds totaling $168.80 from the auction, a rummage sale and other events that the third through sixth graders participated in will be donated to the Salvation Army's Tree of Lights campaign.

Garage, yard sale measure passes

By DONNA KIMBRO
Staff writer

MADISON An ordinance regulating permits for garage and yard sales in Madison was unanimously approved by the City Council Tuesday night.

Permits costing $2 will be issued for a 3-day period that does not include Sunday. However, the same person or address will not be eligible for another permit unless three months have elapsed.

The sale hours must be from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. only and any violation of Ordinance 1099 can result in a $100 fine.

TO UPDATE city ordinances, the aldermen agreed to use the Illinois State Code in conjunction with modular homes until another ordinance can be prepared by John Dutko, city inspector, and Larry Hartman, city attorney.

Hartman said he has contacted a firm that is involved in revamping ordinance filing systems with a cross index file. The approximate cost would be $10,000 to $12,000. This cost could be spread over a three-year period, the attorney said.

"I am waiting for an outline and cost analysis of such a project and would like to have you table this until I have more concrete figures to present," Hartman added.

Alderman Paul Ashford said, "I'm interested in this but I think we should wait for additional information."

THE COUNCIL TABLED a request to donate $1,000 toward renovation of a courtroom in the City Hall of Granite City.

Aldermen approved a request from Bethel AME Church for a $200 rental fee for land, owned by the church and leased by the city for a playground area. The amount was for 1984 and 1985.

Council members granted approval to Eldon Rhoades, fire chief, to enroll Steve Petrosky as a probationary fireman, with the stipulation that he begin EMT (emergency medical technician) training.

A LETTER from a resident of Meridian Street was read, noting he was pleased with additional stop signs erected in that area.

He said he was concerned that the street has not been repaved. After some discussion, it was determined most of the street is within the city limits of Granite City, with only one block in Madison.

Build Illinois money

MESD gets $500,000

By SUSANNE INDELICATO

GRANITE CITY Build Illinois funds will be used to begin dredging the Madison County Ditch and the Cahokia Canal, it was announced Thursday by Shang Greathouse, Metro-East Sanitary District executive director.

The district will receive $500,000 to dredge the ditch and canal down to the flood control gates at Horseshoe Lake, Greathouse said. The entire project cost is estimated at $2.3 million, but the $500,000 will "give us a good start," Greathouse said. He anticipates more funds will be allocated later for the dredging project.

THE WATERWAYS were constructed in the 1920s and have not been upgraded since, officials said. Silt has built up in the waterways, which now carry 20 percent less water than they were originally designed to carry.

The Madison County Ditch runs 7½ miles from Hartford to the St. Clair County line. It empties into the Cahokia Canal, which channels drainage five miles to the Mississippi River. The canal is maintained by MESD.

The levee district is facing a number of lawsuits because the Cahokia Canal is not draining water from people's property, Greathouse has said.

THE DITCHES were built to drain

Granite City gets nothing

GRANITE CITY — Hopes for state money to finance repair work on the city's sewer breaks went down the drain Wednesday.

Gov. George H. Ryan announced the city's request for $500,000 in Build Illinois money was denied. The funds were going to be used to help facilitate repairs in the city's ongoing battle with breaks in the sanitary sewer system.

Mayor Von Dee Cruse said he was disappointed about the outcome.

"WE'VE GOT A CRISIS here," he said. "Alton got $1 million for upgrading their sewer system and Collinsville got $1.1 million for their sewers — we deserve at least that much."

Cruse said he hopes the turn-down will have a positive outcome.

"I'm hoping to change our request to a higher figure," he said. "We need more than $500,000 anyway. After the study of the sewer system is concluded, we'll be in a better position to ask for funds."

STATE REP. SAM WOLF (D-Granite City) said Thursday he was disappointed that Granite City had been turned down. Wolf had been instrumental in requesting the money for the city.

In 1984, he requested that $300,000 in state money be given to the city. When that was turned water from 9,000 acres, including 4,600 acres of farm land. Crop losses in adjacent farmland have been estimated in the millions of dollars due to flooding, officials said.

Gov. George H. Ryan announced the allocation of $4.9 million in Build Illinois funds for projects in Madison and St. Clair counties. The announcement was made Wednesday in Collinsville.

The projects were among 108 legislative "add-on" projects to the Build Illinois package, signed by Gov. James Thompson July 25.

THE GOVERNOR assigned Ryan to assess the feasibility and quality of each of the "add-ons" and recommend those that could and should be funded now.

Ryan issued his findings and recommendations to the governor Dec. 12 after 11 weeks of hearings and site visits in more than 50 cities around the state.

DUI law gets tougher

By BILL WINTER
Staff writer

The new year may bring difficult times for drunk drivers — and cities. A stricter DUI (driving under the influence) law will go into effect on New Year's Day. And its "irresponsible" wording may prove financially costly to municipalities as well as making arresting officers' appearances more numerous.

SUCH CONCERNS, centering around the allegation that the law sets up unsound procedural rules, are being studied by the Southwestern Illinois Council of Mayors.

Added funding for the DUI crackdown was appropriated by legislators for the Illinois Supreme Court, which turned down the implementing money on the basis that courts cannot play more than one role, mayors say.

Traffic fines, a big revenue source for some cities, villages and counties, may dwindle due to increased administrative costs, it is being predicted.

ON THE POSITIVE SIDE, Secretary of State Jim Edgar and General Assembly leaders see the law as a big advance in the effort to reduce drunk motorists' legal loopholes. As a result, they say, streets and highways are likely to become safer places to travel and cross.

Of 59 recommendations by a state task force, 52 were enacted. Goal is "swift and certain punishment to deter DUI." Key provisions include: Automatic license suspensions. A person failing or refusing a DUI test will face loss of driving privileges beginning 45 days after the arrest.

A "bill of rights" for victims of DUI vehicles. They will be notified of court dates and may present statements.

Color-coded (red) driver licenses identifying those younger than 21.

THE NEW ILLINOIS law, applying to those with 0.10 percent or more alcohol in their blood, is expected to be the toughest in the U.S.

except for Oregon, where 0.08 is the standard.

Arrested drunken driving suspects may get special driving permits for work or health reasons but not until they have been without driving privileges for 30 days.

First-time offenders face a three-month suspension for failing a blood alcohol test or six months for declining to be tested. At present, only one-tenth of first-time violators lose the right to drive.

IN SOME INSTANCES, a felony charge of aggravated battery by an auto may be filed against a drunken motorist.

A factor that displeases area mayors is that multiple hearings are possible — potentially three to perhaps a dozen — with police having to spend much more time in court.

However, some counties, such as Madison, may fight court logjams with monthly "DUI days" in which all parties concentrate on such cases.

Christmas can bring out the best in everyone

By SUSANNE INDELICATO
Staff writer

It seems that every year about this time, someone somewhere will write about "that very special Christmas." Every Christmas has been special to me, but there is one Christmas I will never forget.

This isn't a story about a Christmas miracle. This isn't a story about the brotherhood of man. This isn't a story about poor people whose lives are enriched through their love for one another.

Sunday focus

This is a story about planned deceit, greed and misjudgment of character.

ANY AVID READER of author Jean Shepherd knows what kind of family the Bumpuses are. That kind of family lived next door to my aunt.

This family, I'll call them the Wildeys, was made up of a chain-smoking, hoarse-from-yelling mother, a "fun-loving" father and enough children to start a school district.

Their yard, if you could call it that, consisted of hard-packed dirt with only an occasional weed with enough courage to poke its head above ground.

The Wildeys never met a stray dog. Stray dogs were their dogs, whether they stayed around the house or in the neighbors' flower gardens.

AUNTIE ALWAYS WARNED me about the Wildeys when I'd visit her. To tell the truth, I didn't need the warning. I wasn't into smoking cigarettes, discussing my parents' personal habits and beating up kids at the age of 5.

But with age came a more liberal attitude and a move — into my aunt's house while our new house was being built.

"Don't go to the store with the Wildeys," Auntie told me. "The clerks watch them like hawks and if they steal something while you're there, you could get in trouble, too."

"Don't go into their house," she'd said. "Their mother has enough trouble with her own children, so she shouldn't have to worry about you, too."

But I had befriended two of the girls — Freda, who was a year older than me, and Rita, who was a year younger.

THEY WERE LIKE the others, untamed and daring adventure seekers, taunters, fibbers and, most of all, fun.

Clerks did follow us around stores waiting for us to steal something. And, unfortunately, the girls usually did leave with something, although I never saw how they got it.

As a teenager, everything I yearned to know about was revealed to me by the Wildey girls. And they told me things with a hint of first-hand knowledge.

The girls spurned shoes during the winter, revelled in practical jokes on unsuspecting old women and, with each devilish act, scared and thrilled me.

I WAS 13 that Christmas when the Wildey girls came to my family's new house and asked me to go caroling with them.

"We're going to ask for donations and then give the money to the Browns. They're so poor, they probably won't have a very good Christmas," Freda said.

You don't even know the Browns," I said. In fact, no one knew the Browns because their poverty kept them under such a low profile. "I see them at school," Rita said.

"The little one needs a new coat so bad. That girl would probably like some cologne. It's too bad their mother can't buy that stuff for them."

"OK, I'll go," I said.

I KNEW WHAT all this caroling stuff was about. I knew we would go caroling as an excuse to get out on the town. I knew we'd ask for donations and get them because of my presence and my family's reputation. I knew the Browns would never see a dime of it, either, because we'd keep the money to buy cigarettes, eye makeup and teen magazines.

I knew all this because I knew the Wildeys.

So the three of us soon found ourselves on a front porch singing "Silent Night." The door opened and a woman smiled as we sang.

"We're collecting donations to give to the Browns," Freda said when our song was ended. "Would you like to help a needy family this Christmas?"

THE WOMAN LOOKED from Freda to Rita to me. I smiled innocently, thinking of the blue eye shadow I had seen in the department store.

"Let me see what I have to give," she said, hesitatingly reaching into her purse and pulling out a dollar.

"Thanks," Rita said as she grab-ed the dollar, stuffing it into an empty Mason jar.

A half hour, an hour, two hours — "Silent Night" reverberated through the neighborhoods and the Mason jar was stuffed with bills. And all the time the Wildeys hadn't discussed their plan with me.

"We better get home," Freda finally said, saying nothing about taking the money to the Browns.

"WHAT ABOUT THE BROWNS?" I asked, winking at the Wildey girls and grinning.

"Would you take the money to them? They don't trust us, but they'd take it from someone like you. Besides, it's on your way home," Rita said.

Rita handed me the jar, and the girls turned and walked toward home, leaving me not with a third of the money, but the entire amount.

I started the other direction, toward my own home. I figured I had probably $20, $30 in my possession. A lot of money for a 13-year-old.

I STOPPED and stared when I got to the Brown home.

There were no Christmas decorations and the house was dark and spooky.

I turned and ran, leaving the Mason jar behind in the mailbox.

Shh ... It's a secret

Secrecy in government is an evil. Sometimes it's a necessary evil, but an evil nonetheless.

Whenever the public does not know what it's elected or appointed officials are doing, the possibility exists for those persons to supersede their authority.

And they do.

Allowing secrecy to go unchecked in any department of government is a passport to absolute power for the department's head. Even a well-meaning department head.

Absolutely all of us know where absolute power leads.

It becomes impossible to question such persons about their activities. They can get by with spending public money or conducting illegal operations without anyone knowing.

The Granite City Council consists of an intelligent group of persons. If any one of them, or any of their department heads, happened to make a very large, unauthorized purchase even for the sake of the public's welfare, the council would surely be upset.

They would recognize, perhaps, the need for the purchase, but they would explain to any persons involved in such activities that the council must know about every purchase before the purchase, not after. The word "council" and "rubber stamp" are not synonyms.

This includes activities labeled "secret." Just because someone thinks it should be secret doesn't mean that's the end of it. The council must question everything involving public money, especially secret purchases. Even if the council must ask the questions in private.

After all, none can say councilmen would use inside information to injure the public just as no congressman would injure the public by disclosing military secrets. The ramifications of disclosing legitimate secrets would be too terrible for the person involved.

We acknowledge the right of government to keep certain secrets, but as another public representative, the newspaper questions the wisdom of government any time those in charge don't know what those under them are doing.

Wise men still walk the earth

A long time ago, three men gathered to follow a star. They had only a dream of where its light might take them, but they believed that dream.

The journey was long and difficult, but they would not be turned away. They had a dream and it drove them.

They believed their dream so strongly that mere provisions for the journey were not enough. They believed they would find, beneath the light of the distant star, the Chosen One. And so, among the provisions these wise men, these three great kings, brought with them gifts of adoration.

But when they came upon Bethlehem, they saw no mighty castle and host of servants waiting upon a gloriously clothed monarch perched on a golden throne. They saw instead a stable, a few ragged people and a Child wrapped in swaddling clothes resting in a manger.

Perhaps some of us would have turned away, thinking the way of the star was still ahead since the Child looked nothing like a King. But unlike most of us, these were wise men. They did not trust their eyes; the heart, too, can see.

The three kings humbled themselves before this Child born in conditions suited to the poorest of the poor. They honored him with gifts. They accepted the One called Jesus as the end of their dream, the culmination of their journey beneath the star.

History tells us it happened nearly 2,000 years ago that a man named Jesus was born and in the Gospels we find the story of the three wise men. The story has not been forgotten and shall never be, so powerful was the impact of the Child's life on mankind.

The spirit of giving displayed that night is also remembered. It is remembered as we share this time with our families and friends. It is remembered by those who extend their good fortunes to the poor.

Like the wise men, the United Way, the Salvation Army and a host of organizations and individuals in the Tri-Cities Area are still following a sort of star. They still carry gifts among their provisions.

The star they follow is the still carry gifts with food, with clothing, with counseling. In so doing they follow the will of the Child, who, when grown to maturity, admonished us to "feed my sheep."

The work of such organizations and individuals, even after 1,985 years, reminds us all that, as on the first Christmas morning, Christ lives and wise men walk the earth.

Merry Christmas!

We are now in the season that heralds again the ancient story of the birth of Christ.

It is one of the greatest of the seasons in the saga of all Christendom. It is the birth of our Lord and Savior.

Down through the ages since this greatest of events, the world and everything in it have been affected, including time. The events taking place since Christ's birth have been given a chronological date, with the year designated from that time, and before that time.

Since Christ's birth, He has touched the lives of many millions of people. Through God's plan of Salvation, He has inspired and instilled in the hearts of men the doctrine of "Peace and Good Will Among Men."

From His place of birth, a lowly manger, our Savior, from His beginning on this earth, taught us the principles of humility, honesty, integrity, industry and love for one another.

It is at this time of the year, when we honor the Lord's birth, that we are reminded of Christ's principles. Would not it be wonderful if this spirit could prevail throughout the entire year?

Your views

The spirit of Christ begins within each of us and grows throughout the world.

Christmas, the greatest of all festivals, is celebrated throughout the world. From the earliest days of Christian churches, festivals celebrating the birth of Christ have been held.

In England this festival was known as "Christes Messe," which meant, "Christ's Mass" and from this comes the word Christmas. It is often spelled "Xmas" because X is the Greek equivalent of CH and CH represents Christ.

The date of Christmas varied during the early centuries of Christianity because there was no historical record of the exact date of the birth of Christ. In some churches it was celebrated in December, while others celebrated it in January.

About 337 AD the Church of Rome definitely fixed the 25th day of December as the birthday of the Lord. Since the Fifth Century most of the Christian world has celebrated that day as Christ's birthday.

The gifts brought to the Christ Child by the wise men may well have been the origin of the custom of giving gifts at Christmas. This custom may have grown out of the desire to emulate a feeling of good will inspired by generosity.

At this time of the year and all throughout the year, let us keep the spirit of Christmas alive in our hearts.

Have a merry Christmas, everyone.

Some Christmas comedy to help make merry

Jimmy Durante had a famous line that fits this column.

"Everybody thinks he's a comedian," he used to complain.

The interest of adding to your holiday cheer, the following:

Several years ago there was a cathedral in Spain. The priest needed to replace a retiring bell ringer.

Being an equal opportunity establishment, the cathedral advertised the job locally and was swamped with applicants.

One of the applicants was a gentleman who had no arms.

The priest quickly told him he lacked the prerequisite for the position, but the man convinced the priest to give him a chance.

Making the most of his opportunity, the man rushed headlong into the church bells, ringing them with the side of his face.

People in the village thought the sound was very pleasant and the man was given the job.

A month went by and the town became accustomed to the mellow sounding bells. But one day, the man missed the bells and his momentary carried him out of the bellry window. He fell to his death on the street below.

A crowd gathered.

Police asked if anyone recognized the victim.

"I don't know, but his face rings a bell," one man said.

The accident left the church without a bell ringer once again, but not for long. The armless man had a twin brother with a similar talent and the priest hired him to take his brother's place.

For the next month the town delighted in the mellow tones that tolled the hour. Then, one day, the bell ringer missed his target and fell to his death from the bellry window.

Once again a crowd gathered.

Once again the police asked if anyone recognized the victim.

Once again a man came forward.

"I don't know him, but the same thing happened here last month and this guy is a dead ringer for the other guy," the man said.

What does Santa Claus do in his garden? Hoe, hoe, hoe.

My lawyer said there was no such thing as a sanity clause.

What do Santa's reindeer get in the desert? Sandy claws.

Why does Santa wear mittens? To keep his hands warm.

Sorry.

What keeps falling, but never gets hurt? Snowflakes.

Why do reindeer fly over the roof? They can't fly under the roof.

Most columns of this sort deserve a whizbang ending. But since this isn't a whizbang column, why bother?

Have yourself a merry little Christmas.

Romulo aided in WWII campaign

To the Editor:

With the death on Sunday, Dec. 15, of General Carlos Romulo, the outstanding foreign diplomat of the Philippine government and one of the men who made the historic landing at Leyte, Philippines, Oct. 20, 1944, the famous "I shall return" landing group now has only five men left.

Paul Barnett, my friend who piloted the landing craft Navy 13, passed away several months ago.

It was a great pleasure meeting

Gen. Romulo Oct. 20, 1974, at the MacArthur Memorial in Norfolk, Va., for the 30th anniversary of the landing at Leyte.

He gave fiery oratory at the memorial as keynote speaker. Later, we all had lunch with the general, Barnett and his family, myself, and all the dignitaries that day along with Mrs. Gen. MacArthur.

I had no idea of the tremendous background of Gen. Romulo as I read the obituary notice of his death. He was an outstanding diplomat and a great friend and follower of Gen. MacArthur.

With Barnett and Romulo gone, there are only five living men left from the landing. Slowly, one by one, they just fade away...with history.

I am proud to have seen a part of their history and to learn of their great landing, which led to the liberation of the Philippines.

Don't drink and drive

This is the time of year when many newspapers traditionally remind readers about drinking and driving.

After all, the other media do it. They run commercials on radio and television — see the one where two glasses crash together and glass and alcohol go flying?

There's really little point in telling those who already know, that they should stay off the road when they've been drinking.

They will.

They know the danger; perhaps from the tragedy of experience. But it's traditional to appeal to those who don't listen to reason.

The idea is that maybe, just maybe, they might not drink that one last glass for the road. And by their restraint they just might get home without killing themselves and others in a traffic accident.

It's a lot to hope. But it's worth trying a "maybe" like an editorial when it could mean saving a life.

So, it was decided that we again follow the holiday tradition of giving you, the reader, a reminder about drinking and driving.

Without belaboring the point, we decided to say something pithy, yet expressing exactly how we view the prospect of having a few drinks and hitting the road...

Don't.

Christmas misconceptions just not very merry stead of Christmas. What have you got to say about that?

Right away I figured a bearded fellow to be an old whippersnapper. "Are you trying to take Christ out of Christmas?"

Well, there's a lot of complaints I can handle gently, but not that one. "Waddaya mean?" I was angry. "See here, young fellow, in your brightened a bit and some red came to his puffy cheeks. "But there was also an article about Christmas in July I didn't like."

"What? You mean the one that said whoever decided to celebrate the holiday during winter didn't think it out well?"

"Yes, that's the one. I guess Christ didn't know you were coming or He would have changed His birthday."

"Sir, you realize, I hope, that Dec. 25 is a symbol only. No one claims it's actually the day on which Jesus was born because no one knows the actual day. The purpose of the day is to set aside a time to recognize Immanuel's arrival. Whoever set aside the day could have just as easily decided to do it in July as December."

He thought about that a bit, and he began slowly nodding, then he began to chuckle, and then he began to laugh long and hard so that his belly shook like a bowl full of jelly.

"I guess the joke's on me, young fellow. I didn't know all that and here I was trying to ruin your Christmas because I thought you were trying to ruin mine."

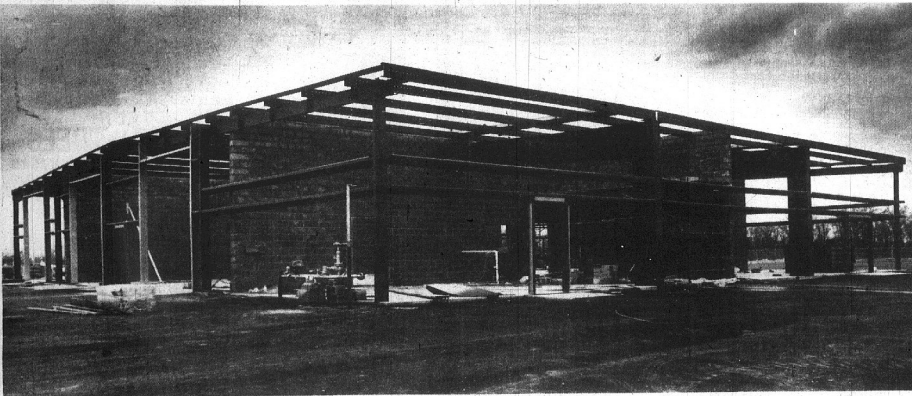

"Anyone can make a mistake," I shrugged.

"Merry Christmas," he said, making for the door.

"Merry Christmas," I responded. And as he opened the door, his voice boomed so that all the staff could hear, "Merry Christmas to all and to all a good night."

Hospice hits Madison County

By SUSANNE INDELICATO
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — Terminally ill patients in Madison County are being offered Medicare-certified hospice services from Belleville Hospice Inc.

Belleville Hospice has received permission from state officials to extend its boundaries to include Madison County, said Jack Lee, Belleville Hospice executive director, during a luncheon in Edwardsville Tuesday.

"ALTHOUGH MADISON County has three existing hospice programs (Madison County, Wood River and Alton), none is Medicare certified, so we don't view this expansion of services as competition," Lee said. "We are providing an additional service to the people of Madison County, with special emphasis on the elderly."

Belleville Hospice is only one of the two free-standing hospices in the state that are Medicare certified, Lee said.

Hospice of Madison County doesn't have Medicare certification, said Nina Millett, program director of the Madison County Hospice, based in Granite City.

"WE'RE TAKING a good, long look at it (Medicare certification)," she said. "I think it may be the way we'll want to go."

As for competition between the two hospices, Millett foresees none if Madison County Hospice receives Medicare certification because Madison County will have "more to offer through our home health mechanism," she said.

Medicare certification carries stringent requirements, including written statements from doctors that patients have less than six months to live. The home health program requires only a verbal prognosis from the doctor, Millett said.

MADISON COUNTY Hospice's home health department is based at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. It allows home visits to hospice patients to be billed to the insurer.

There are several drawbacks to Medicare certification, Millett said, including financial risks and the possibility that laws providing for Medicare certification may "sunset," or expire, next year unless the state legislature votes to extend the program.

"Only 10 percent of the hospices in the country are participating," Millett said. "It hasn't been a real popular benefit. It has very little to do, on the bottom line, with health care. It's a form of reimbursement."

BY BEING Medicare certified, Belleville Hospice provides general inpatient care, physical therapy, and speech language pathology and will continue to care for any patient who survives past the 60-day benefit limit at no cost to the patient or his family, Lee said. "The Medicare patient pays nothing under the program," he said.

"By coming into Madison County, we hope to get some hospitals in the area to join our program," Lee said, noting St. Elizabeth's Hospital and Memorial Hospital, both in Belleville, are participants.

But Millett believes SEMC in Granite City would prefer to participate in the Madison County hospice program.

LEE IS HOPEFUL a satellite office will be established in Madison County by the first of next year to serve those wishing to enroll in Belleville Hospice. The hospice has been eligible to serve Madison County since last month.

Last year, Belleville Hospice had 101 patients, 70 percent of whom were on Medicare. The Medicare certification was granted in March 1983, Lee said.

Belleville Hospice also is seeking volunteers and will conduct a volunteer training program. Further information is available by calling 1-235-1703 or writing Belleville Hospice, 315 N. Church St., Belleville, Ill. 62220.

Three Quad Citians named to Madison County authority

By SUSANNE INDELICATO

MADISON COUNTY — Three Quad-City area residents will serve on the Madison County Metropolitan Exposition and Office Building Authority. The authority members were approved by the Madison County Board Wednesday.

Serving on the nine-member authority will be Winnie Sasyk of 1423 Fifth St., Madison, Margaret Lee of 1230 Klein Ave., Venice, and Goni Michaeloff of 1401 27th St.

Sasyk's term expires June 1, 1987, Lee's June 1, 1988, and Michaeloff's June 1, 1990. Lee is a bank officer, Dr. Michaeloff is a teacher and Sasyk is the wife of former Mayor Mike Sasyk of Madison.

THE COUNTY BOARD approved a resolution to establish a civic center authority last March. The action paved the way for additional grant money to the county.

The authority includes every municipality in the county except Collinsville, which organized its own authority last year. The authority will accept applications for community projects and review them for submission to the state for funding, county officials said.

County officials were asked by the Madison County Arts Council to establish the authority so the council could access about $400,000 for its Wilkey Arts Center in Edwardsville.

ABOUT $5 MILLION is available each year throughout the state for construction or renovation of community centers, city halls with public meeting rooms, and other public facilities, county officials said.

The authority will not have taxing powers unless a tax is approved by a countywide referendum, it was noted.

Phoenix Center refused grant

"What a setback," said Phoenix Crisis Center Inc. Board President Barb Young. "To have come so far in hopes of obtaining this grant and then suddenly to be stopped in our tracks is hard to take, but the organization will go right back to applying again."

Young's statement was made at the Dec. 17 meeting where she announced to her board and volunteers that the grant applied for through the Illinois Attorney General's Office had been denied due to twice as much money being applied for as was available. Treasurer Barb Reedy said funds were virtually exhausted for paying the salary of the assistant administrator.

The grant would have helped provide an adequate salary for Assistant Administrator Carol Lee Chiappa, who is on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week, but who receives a salary far short of minimum wage. The grant would have also provided badly-needed office equipment, officials said.

Financial help is also needed to provide long-term money for rental of the "Safe House and its operation," Chiappa said. Help from the area's United Methodist churches has been instrumental in filling the needs to date, and assistance from others would assure the organization continues in its role of helping battered women.

Young said persons who want to help with donations or volunteer work may call Phoenix Crisis Center Inc. at 451-1008. Though struggling financially, the organization is pursuing a request that it expand its services. A meeting is to be set up by Chiappa with an Edwardsville woman who believes the area needs the services of a shelter.

The next Phoenix meeting is at 7 p.m. Jan. 7 at the "Phoenix House." For further information, Carol Chiappa can be reached at 451-1008.

Cost of cleaning cars for police meeting topic

By DONNA KIMBRO

Staff writer

MADISON — The cost of keeping police cars washed and cleaned became a topic of the Madison City Council Dec. 17.

"The cost has continued to accelerate since April 1984, and I do not think this is a necessary expense," Alderman William Gushleff said.

He read figures taken from some of the previous bill reports, listing the cost of police car washes: April 9-23, 1984, $3.75; April 23 through May 1984, $8.50; June 5-18, 1985, $41; July 3-16, $11.7; Aug. 20-Sept. 10, $101; Nov. 6-19, $88; and December 1985, $83.50.

"I don't think we need cars washed this often. That's about 30 washes a month for five cars and if we keep this up we will be into a deficit financial picture."

"I am not against keeping the cars clean but I think this is excess spending. I cannot believe five cars need to be washed six times a month. I don't buy that," Gushleff said.

Police Sgt. Charles Bridick responded, "We are talking about five vehicles that are washed once a week. There are no manhours involved and the vehicle is cleaned inside and out and hot waxed. When the cost was the highest was the time that the cars were buffed out."

"All cars are washed on Saturday and, if necessary, they are done again during the week. The clean cars reflect on the police officer who is driving the vehicle, and the city. I don't think this is an excessive amount," Bridick said.

Gushleff said, "We have a full-time custodian and he can do this work when weather is good. That's my opinion and I think the rest of the council should comment on this."

There were no other comments on the subject, but Alderman Robert Grieve asked for an explanation of bills listed for the playground and recreation program, especially car expenses totaling $100 a month.

"The recreation director has a truck there to drive and for the last three months I have noticed this cost," Grieve said.

Rick Tutka, city comptroller, explained that the car expense is a blanket expense that covers many small purchases needed at the recreation center that cannot wait to be bought before the council has given its approval.

"This entry has always been in the budget and always paid. However, it was never listed as an individual item. Now, I am showing everything," Tutka said.

Temporary Chairman Charles Rockett asked for a motion to approve and pay bills in the amount of

Venice issues traffic tickets

By VALERIE EVENDEN

Staff writer

Thirty-four traffic tickets were issued, including four for driving under the influence of alcohol or a controlled substance, and 168 warnings were given at two checkpoints in Illinois State Police District 11. The district includes the Quad-City area.

District 11's roadside safety checkpoints were set up between the hours of 7 p.m. Friday, Dec. 13, and 5 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 14.

ROADBLOCKS were established statewide, with 47 motorists arrested on DUI charges throughout Southern Illinois.

In the 10-hour period, District 11 troopers issued written warning tickets to 108 drivers for a variety of infractions, such as not wearing a seatbelt, not having a driver's license on their person or similar traffic violations.

Fourteen motorists were ticketed for illegal transportation of alcohol and 16 others received citations for not having a valid driver's license or valid vehicle registration, according to Sgt. William Powers of ISP District 11.

Sobriety checkpoints statewide resulted in 64 arrests for alcohol-related offenses and 708 warnings to drivers for miscellaneous violations.

"SEVERAL SAFETY checkpoints (in District 11) are planned in the next couple of weeks, especially through the holidays and on New Year's Eve," Powers said.

District 11 officials will announce the days that checks are planned, but not their locations, Powers said. Targeted areas, however, primarily will focus on trouble spots where a high incidence of alcohol-related accidents and traffic arrests have occurred or a large number of taverns are located, he said.

"We are going to do this constant," the officer said. "It is definitely an enforcement tool," he said, noting the Illinois Supreme Court's Nov. 21 decision that such checkpoints are within constitutional bounds.

SOME OR ALL cars passing a checkpoint are stopped and their drivers are questioned. "We could pull over one out of every three cars if traffic is heavy, or take each car," Powers said.

Uniformed State Police troopers "advised to guidelines will man the roadblocks, stopping motorists on a systematic basis to determine whether the driver may be alcohol- or drug-impaired."

December, a time of holiday receptions, office parties and family gatherings, historically has had higher than average incidence of driving, under the influence of alcohol.

Records also show that nearly 2,000 people will die nationwide in traffic accidents which involve the use of alcohol during December, Major Ronald H. Grimming, ISP Area IV commander, said this week.

ILLINOIS STATE POLICE recommend the following points to help those who do go out to "party" during this holiday season:

— Hosts and hostesses should promote the designated driver concept at all gatherings where alcohol will be served. The number of tragic seasonal fatalities can be reduced if this act of friendship is offered along with an alcoholic beverage.

— Designated drivers should volunteer at the beginning of the party or holiday celebration to drink non-alcoholic beverages and to drive the other celebrants home safely.

— Do not permit a friend who has had too much to drink to drive.

— CHECK WITH a physician or pharmacist to determine whether it is safe to drive after taking a prescribed or over-the-counter drug, and then follow this advice. Read the label on drug bottles for a warning describing potentially adverse effects.

— Ask a physician or pharmacist what the effects will be if you consume alcoholic beverages while using the medication.

"During this festive holiday season, let's be in the giving spirit. Give yourself and others a chance; don't drink and drive," Grimming said.

What does Santa Claus do during off season?

EDITOR'S NOTE: Second graders in Granite City Schools were asked to share with us "What Santa does the rest of the year. The following is a sample of the responses we received. Teachers provided us with more essays than we could use, but the following represent a good sample. From the employees of this publication to all of you, have a safe and happy holiday.

NIEDRINGHAUS SCHOOL

Santa and his helpers keep busy all the time. In the spring, Santa and his helpers start making toys for girls and boys. In the fall the elves are almost finished. The night before Christmas Eve and Santa is so fat, he almost can't fit in his sleigh! On Christmas night Santa and his reindeer friends went through the air and into the sky. And when he comes back he's so sleepy, he came in the door and sat down in a chair and ... he fell fast asleep!

by Mandy Schermer
After Christmas the helpers and reindeer go outside to play. Then they start off learning how to fly. Before the helpers are busy making toys but one was slow. He was the slowest one in Christmas Land. Santa said one day tomorrow is Christmas Eve all through the night. That one little helper was not asleep. He was making toys so that next morning he could not go with Santa Claus because he did not get some sleep.

by Amanda Barnett
I think Santa and his helpers well before Christmas they give the reindeer a bath. And then they get the toys ready for Christmas. And of course Santa Claus gets a bath. And while they are doing that Mrs. Claus is baking something for them to eat. And well I think after that Christmas well I guess they do the same thing.

by Sarah Gouy
MARYVILLE SCHOOL
The helpers make more toys for next year. Then they go out and feed the reindeer. The helpers make dolls and cars. And then the reindeer rest. And after the elves get don they rest. And Santa Claus checks the list and then he rests. And Rudolph shines his nose so bright that the snow turns bright red.

by Jessica Kiselka
After Christmas the elves took a little break. Then they started to get back to work. Then in a week they were done. So then Santa said let's go to New York. Okay said one elf. Then all the other elves said yes. So then they did.

by Timmy Davis
They have fun. Santa tells his reindeer to have a break. They check the list. They shine the sleigh. A elf tells Santa who has been good and bad. Santa combs his beard. The elves and Santa take a break. They relax.

by Eric Fanta

I think Santa reads books and I think Santa swims at the beach in Florida. He is a nice man. He might help Miss Claus with the dishes and feed the reindeer and he might fix the beds. Ho Ho!

by Jeremy Stagner

PARKVIEW SCHOOL
Santa Claus wraps the presents while the elves are making toys. Santa gets in his sleigh and goes to the children's houses. He puts their toys in their stockings. He puts the presents under the Christmas tree then he goes home and rests. After Christmas Santa went to sleep.

by Darrik French
A long time ago there was an old man. His name was Santa. One night there was a storm and Santa had some bad news. We can't have Christmas said Santa. The elves saw a red light. It was Rudolph. Santa said, "You will lead my sleigh tonight!" The names of the other reindeer are Blitzen, Donner, Cupid, Comet, Vixen, Prancer, Dasher, and Dasher. Then Santa went home to sleep.

by Steven Ferguson
One night before Christmas Santa was very busy packing his sled to go deliver presents to the children. Then he called Blitzen, Donner, Cupid, Comet, Vixen, Prancer, Dasher, and Rudolph. We got presents to deliver so they went. All the children heard the bells ringing and they shouted "Hurray!"

Hurray!" its Santa. Then Santa went home and went to sleep.

by Katrina Sorenson
At Christmas if Santa's helpers don't work he fires them. He gets a sleigh and makes the elf get on the sleigh and down the hill it goes. They can play hockey, soccer and other games all year around.

by Michael Heintz
Santa and his helpers sleigh on their sleds and say, "Wheel! this is fun". I like sledding on my sled. Wheel! Then, they go inside and make a lot, lot, lot, lot more presents for the whole world for next Christmas. And then after all that, they take a long, long rest. After they rest, it is Christmas again.

by Kelly Kiger
There are probably more than 100 children so they have to get an early start. They start about October 1st. They have to get their tools ready to make lots and lots of toys for little boys and girls. They paint the sleigh bright red and make sure there is enough room in the sleigh for the bags because the bags have to hold a lot of toys. The bags get worn out so the elves find new ones and the day before Christmas there are a lot of bags of toys. The bags get worn out so the elves find new ones and the day before Christmas there are a lot of bags of toys. The bags get worn out so the elves find new ones and the day before Christmas there are a lot of bags of toys.

Woman hit by car is admitted to hospital

Rosemary Waldo, 58, of 203 Madison Ave., Madison, was struck by a car at 7:10 a.m. Thursday and was admitted to the Intensive Care Unit at St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment of a skull fracture. She later was listed in stable condition.

It is believed she was attempting to cross Madison Avenue at Third Street and was struck by a car driven by Richard L. Mowery of 1915 Fifth St., E. Madison.

Mowery said he was looking to his left for traffic and, when he turned the corner, he did not see the woman.

DETERGENT WORTH $8,645 TAKEN FROM PARKED TRUCK

Jerome Hedger of Collinsville reported at 4:35 a.m. Dec. 16 that a load of Tide detergent, valued at $8,645, was stolen from his truck while it was parked at the Gateway Midstate Truck Plaza on Route 202 south of the main area of Madison.

Also taken were two right rear tires and rims costing $900. Hedger had picked up the merchandise in Kansas City, Kan., and was to deliver it in St. Louis. He works for C. Maxwell Trucking, a division of Proctor and Gamble based in Overland Park, Kan.

SHIRTS TAKEN FROM STORE

A young man entered the Normberg Store, 309 Madison Ave., Madison, Dec. 13, grabbed 10 assorted shirts from a rack, and ran from the store without paying for the merchandise. Tillie Normberg, owner, pursued the man to the 1400 block of Third Street but lost sight of him.

WOMAN CHARGED WITH DUI

Laura Johnson, 21, of St. Louis was arrested on Broadway in Venice Dec. 14 and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and leaving the scene of an accident. She was released on $302 bail. Madison police alleged her husband, Jeffrey Johnson, 25, became disorderly during questioning, and he was charged with disorderly conduct.

WOMAN ALLEGES BATTERY

Betty Blake, 35, of 2122 Nevada Ave. was arrested by police after she called them to her home in an incident in her home. Blake told officers that Clarence H. Hoffman, 42, of the 2100 block of Nevada had damaged the door of her home and struck her in the face. Police charged Hoffman with battery and property damage. It was discovered Blake was wanted on two warrants alleging failure to appear on a suspended driver's license charge. She was served the warrants.

Appeal to be heard

A lawsuit by Charles Hester of Granite City, Larry McCallister of Edwardsville and the Madison County Tavern Owners Association will be heard on an appeal, the Illinois Supreme Court has just decided. The suit against insurance firms was dismissed but the dismissal is being appealed. It is alleged that insurance companies have defrauded taverns and liquor dealers by selling them $100,000 to $500,000 insurance even though a state law limits Dramshop Law judgments to $15,000.

$1,000 STOLEN FROM TRUCK

Earl Ferguson of Fayette, Ohio, reported two women entered his truck, parked at Gateway Midstate Truck Plaza, at 11 a.m. Dec. 17. He was checking the tires on the truck at the time. After they left, he discovered a briefcase containing papers, $658 cash and his wallet with $350 were missing.

SEXUAL ASSAULT CHARGED

A 38-year-old Madison man was arrested in Granite City Dec. 19 on a warrant charging him with criminal sexual assault against his 15-year-old daughter. He has been hospitalized.

BLUE 1973 AUTO STOLEN

Christopher Sanders of 2311 Missouri Ave. said Dec. 19 someone took his light blue 1973 Chevrolet Monte Carlo. He had pulled his car into the driveway at 2109 14th St. and left the engine running while he went inside for a few moments. When Sanders returned, the car was gone. Inside of the auto were $120 worth of groceries, $430 in cash and $100 in food stamps.

DRIVER BOOKED FOR DUI, PASSENGER ALSO CHARGED

Mikel R. Roach, 22, of Warrenton, Mo., was arrested in Granite City Dec. 19 for driving under the influence of alcohol and improper lane usage. The arrest took place at 21st Street and Omaha Avenue.

The passenger in Roach's car, Cindy L. Herzberger, 27, of 2144 Waterman Ave., was arrested when police allegedly observed a bag of cannabis in open view in her purse. She was charged with cannabis possession. Each of the two was released on $102 cash bail.

DRIVER INJURED ON RT. 3

Marty A. Bond, 19, of East Alton was injured Dec. 19 when his auto collided with a tractor-trailer at Illinois Route 3 and Rock Road. The driver of the truck was Roger L. Kelley, Houston, Mo. Bond said he was attempting to turn left from northbound Route 3.

State's attorney plans to obtain automation for prosecution

The Madison County state's attorney's office has signed a notice of intent to acquire a microcomputer-based information system being developed by the Illinois Criminal Justice Information Authority.

The Rapid Automated Prosecution System, or RAPPS, will manage felony and misdemeanor case information, coordinate case scheduling and support other administrative tasks. The system also will automate the process of notifying victims and witnesses of the progress of their cases.

The Madison County RAPPS will cost $46,000. Half the system will be paid for with new federal money made available to the state under the Justice Assistance Act of 1984. The other half must be covered by matching county funds.

During the next few months, the authority and the state's attorney's office will be negotiating final terms of an interagency agreement for installing RAPPS. The system is expected to be running in 1986.

"RAPPS is designed using a simple premise," said James Ayres, RAPPS project director. "A prosecutor's office should have data processing support so less staff time is needed to manage the office and more staff time can be devoted to prosecuting cases, especially those involving serious and repeat offenders."

RAPPS will ultimately allow the state's attorney's office to:

- Automatically prepare notices telling victims and witnesses of court appearances and case progress; legislation approved by the General Assembly in 1984 requires state's attorneys to provide this type of notification in a timely manner.
- Automate repetitive and time-consuming tasks, such as producing plea documents and other case reports.
- Generate case fact sheets, case load calendars and other documents.
- Collect and report caseload statistics to improve overall office management.
- Provide links with other computers, including law enforcement and corrections systems and legal research databases.

A REMINDER FROM THE LAW TODAY

The cries of powerful medical and insurance lobbyists for malpractice "reform" have left many people with the impression that the problems of the health care profession are entirely the fault of lawyers, courts and juries. Not mentioned by the same lobbyists is that a survey conducted in California by author Norman Cornius showed that 85 percent of those surveyed had changed or were thinking about changing doctors for such reasons as poor communication skills of the doctor, office clutter, and inability to inspire confidence. Also not mentioned is the fact that some two million patients actually pick up infections while in the hospital each year, often due to a failure to adequately disinfect medical instruments and equipment. As the medical and insurance industries continue to attack your rights to be compensated for acts of negligence committed against you, isn't it about time that someone asked what they are doing to better meet their responsibilities to those they are supposed to serve?

We will be discussing this and other matters on Tuesday night's program.

SCHOOL DISTRICT
NO. 9

Logo winners named

By BILL MILLIGAN
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — More than 120 entries were received in the school district's "design our logo" and jingle contest. A committee of teachers and administrators came up with some winners last week. The school board made things official with a unanimous vote Dec. 17.

"We sure got some good entries," said Dr. Max Redmond, superintendent of schools.

And the winners are... Kathy Sikora, of O'Hare Avenue, topped a field of 52 entries in the logo contest. Her entry emphasized the district's commitment to excellence in education with bold, simple graphics.

Phyllis Weiss, an art teacher, was the judges' favorite among 72 slogan and jingle entries. Her entry echoes the excellence theme: "Molding the future through excellence in education."

Both items are intended for wide use on school district correspondence, reports, forms and report cards.

The district awarded $100 to the winning entries.

The board accepted a gift of 16 carburetors to the high school automotive shop from Metro-East Salvage Inc., Caseyville. The equipment is valued at $3,000.

The board gave permission for 30 high school students to attend a Future Secretaries convention March 20-25 in Denver, financed by the club. It also granted permission for Gary Froender to attend a U.S. Department of Education meeting Jan. 21-24 in Washington, D.C., and Russ Chappell to attend a sports clinic in Washington Jan. 9-10.

The board approved a staff development plan designed to improve teacher morale, enhance classroom management practices, relieve teacher stress, and improve parent-teacher relations.

Participation in the program entitles the district to $11,924 in Illinois State Board of Education funds.

The ISBE granted full recognition to Granite City schools after its annual visitation on Oct. 28. The board was presented with the certificate Dec. 17.

The only area in which the district failed to meet state school codes was frequency of physical education offerings at elementary centers. The report also expressed concern over the lack of separate art and music teachers at the elementary level.

The report noted that class enrollments in special education exceeded the recommended maximum at Grigsby Junior High and Mitchell School.

Study volunteers sought

Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis is seeking people with insulin-dependent diabetes to participate in one of the largest and most important studies of the disease ever performed.

Volunteers are needed for the Diabetes Control and Complications Trial (DCCT), a seven-year study that will include 1,100 to 1,200 participants.

Washington U. is one of 21 medical centers across North America helping to conduct the research, funded by the National Institute of Arthritis, Diabetes and Digestive and Kidney Diseases, part of the National Institutes of Health.

The DCCT is designed to answer one of the key remaining questions about diabetes: how effective are some of the newer forms of diabetes therapy at preventing, delaying or reversing the presence of diabetic complications? These complications may affect the eyes, kidney, nerves, heart and blood vessels.

"Even in people who control their diabetes, the complications can cause serious health problems," says Julio Santiago, M.D., one of the local study directors. "The relationship between blood sugar control and diabetic complications is an extremely important issue. The outcome of the DCCT will have a major impact on the treatment of diabetes in the future."

Santiago and study co-directors Neil White, M.D., and Don Skor, M.D., are looking for individuals with type 1, or insulin-dependent, diabetes.

Participants must be between the ages of 13 and 39, and must have had type 1 diabetes for at least one year but not more than 15 years. They cannot be taking more than two insulin injections per day, be using an insulin pump, or have any severe complications from diabetes.

Volunteers in the study will receive free medical care from diabetes specialists at the Washington U. School of Medicine for the next seven years. To volunteer, or to get further information, area residents may contact Luc Levandoski, Santiago or White at 314-454-6651.

At Washington U., Santiago is professor of pediatrics and associate professor of medicine and White is assistant professor of pediatrics and instructor of medicine. Both are on staff at Barnes and Children's Hospitals, sponsoring institutions of the Medical Center. Skor is clinical instructor of medicine at Washington University and on staff at Barnes and Jewish hospitals. Levandoski is a physician assistant.

Student secretaries hear guest speaker

The Madison High School Chapter of Future Secretaries heard a guest speaker at its December meeting.

After a business meeting conducted by Chapter President Tina Caggioni, the speaker was introduced by Vice President Angela McCarthy. Sister Mary Louise Moser from the local branch of Illinois Cancer Society spoke on early detection of cancer and its prevention.

The members were shown the proper method for self-examination for cancer signs, and were given information on cancer causes. Emphasis was placed on how research has shown that smoking, drinking and use of other chemicals can increase the likelihood of cancer.

Folders containing information about cancer and buttons with slogans against smoking were given to each member of the chapter.

• Santa

Lets do that too. That sounds like a good idea.

Before Christmas comes, Santa's elves, Pink Toe, Blue Nose, and most important of all, Golden Toe, work on toys for hours and hours.

While Santa is relaxing on the beach, they make toy trains, dolls, and other toys in their workshop in the North Pole.

After Christmas, Santa and his helpers probably eat, sleep and play just like we do but...I really do not know what they do because I can not see them.....or maybe they just watch T.V.

Before Christmas, I think Santa's elves stuff dolls and they do painting. Also, they make tracks and cars for children and they make wooden toys like a wooden trailer with a wooden truck pulling the trailer.

Santa Claus goes on a trip to West Virginia and his elves will go to Washington, D.C. to see the Ron Reagans.

Dasher, Dancer, Doner, and Vixen, Prancer, Comet Cupid, Blitzen and the world famous Rudolph the reindeer with a red nose practice flying.

In spring Santa picks flowers for Mrs. Claus. In summer Santa goes to the park and swims. In fall Santa carves a sled. They have lots of fun together. The little elves help make toys for us. Santa's best reindeer is Rudolph.

Some of the elves play and the other elves eat Mrs. Claus's cakes and they drink hot cocoa. The others brush their reindeer then they take three Rindeer out of their stables. They will take the three reindeer out for a test flight. The elves that were playing will go clean their workshop. After all the elves have eaten, Mrs. Claus will clean Santa's clothes. Santa will eat.

WILSON SCHOOL

Santa is very tired so he lays down. Santa gets up to eat potatoes and ham. After dinner he plays checkers.

He'll cut and split wood. Santa fixes things around the house for Mrs. Santa. He takes Mrs. Santa on vacation.

He watches football. He rests all of January. He sees if his elves are in order.

On Santa's day off he wears a white jogging suit and a red hat. He goes out to jog. He wants to lose weight.

Santa and his elves went on vacation to Hawaii. They slept a lot. They all went fishing.

FROHARDT SCHOOL

The elves help in the workshop. Santa helps wrap presents. The elves build toys from dolls to robots. Then, after Christmas they go to sleep.

All of Santa's helpers work on making dolls, go-bots, jack-in-the-boxes, and all other sorts of things. Santa was in the stable making sure the reindeers were really strong. It takes so long to pack all the packages, that when he came out he saw the elves packing.

I think, before and after Christmas, Santa and the elves rest because of all the hard work they had to do. The elves have small beds to rest in. Santa has a big bed to rest in. Sometimes they get up and work on toys. But most of the time they rest.

by Laurie Barron

One elf helps Mrs. Claus make cookies. While some elves clean the reindeers. Then Santa fuels his sled with gas. Then he hooks on the reindeers. Then he will pick the best elves to go with him. He picks the quickest elves to go. Ho, ho, ho!

Sometimes Santa goes to islands in the Pacific and sometimes Rudolph, Comet and Vixen go to the Antarctic. In June, the elves go to the South Pole to visit their mother and father and tell them what a nice Christmas they had.

by Matt Stack

After Christmas Santa makes sure all the toys are gone. Then he shaves himself and then he goes to bed.

I think before Christmas, Santa and his elves get the ribbons and ribbon paper and store them in the closet. After Christmas, Santa Santa and his elves take a long nap while Mrs. Claus cleans the house.

Santa Claus and his elves make toys all year and put them away until Christmas Day. They make them for boys and girls that are good. They don't give them to bad kids but they give them to kids that are bad a little bit.

Trevor branches out in Imaginary Theatre Co.

Jeanne Trevor's bread-and-butter, for the last 20 years, was being the jazz singer in St. Louis nightclubs.

However her role is growing old and stale and the veteran singer-actress-character model wants to move on.

So she is climbing up the stage ladder toward a role on Broadway. She is taking on the first rung now, by playing among other roles, God.

"Maybe you better spell that with a small 'g,'" she said. "I don't want anything to happen."

Trevor, a pint-sized woman, is playing God, the devil, an angel, Santa Claus, and a person in the Imaginary Theatre Company's "Yes Yes No No: The Solace of Solstice, Apogee/Perigee, Bestial/Celestial Holiday Show." The play is being produced through The Repertory Theatre of St. Louis.

"This is a different play," she said, her eyes lighting up a little bit. "We'll see what you think of it."

The play, about human nature is intermingled with Christmas themes. It is playing this month in malls, restaurants and schools as a part of the ITC's Theatre of the Market Place Holiday Tour.

Ironically, on this stop it was playing in a former Trevor stomping ground—a restaurant/nightclub.

"But it's good to see the light of day now," Trevor said, looking at the daylight coming through the windows of the All-American Saloon, on Laclede's Landing, where the play was about to begin.

Trevor, who is 40ish ("Don't you know actresses never admit their age," she said), has played a long list of nightclubs, including the Purple Onion in San Francisco, a number of hotels in St. Louis and several of the riverboats on St. Louis levee—even several orchestra concerts, including the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

She considers herself to be a singer, and she's best known for her jazz singing, but showbiz is like any field—the key to longevity is versatility. As a result she is emphasizing acting in her career.

"I'm doing it for the challenge, the change and growth," Trevor said. "Patti LaBelle has gotten into acting. The two are so parallel. When you are singing you are acting songs out. You are storytelling."

About four years ago she decided to work more on the parallel trade. In addition to work with the ITC, she helps present plays at elementary schools while still keeping a foot in the nightclubs.

"I'm new to the trade, though," she said of the future. "But I'd like to see this come to something—a Broadway musical."

But the transition is gradual. In "Yes Yes," for example, her roles call for singing as well as acting. The play, funded by the Arts and Education Council of Greater St. Louis, is about the creation of the earth and the causes of man's behavior. Written by St. Louis Repertory Theatre director fellow Tony Kushner, it opens with the four cast characters singing Christmas carols, then describes how God created the universe, turning space into "something."

Next, man is created, when an angel and a devil get into a fight and the devil loses his horns. When man has to choose for his inner character between the devil's guilt and his badness, man chooses guilt.

Even Santa can feel guilt, the play explains. Finally, the play shows how cultures celebrate Christmas.

The play lasts a half hour, so it suits the professional's lunch hour, which was when it was presented this time. An audience of 15 watched the play in the lightly lit restaurant.

"It's not a traditional Christmas play," Trevor said. "It has a message for everyone as far as the spirit of Christmas goes."

The play uses a simple set. There is a shiny-new trash can on one side of the stage, and the backdrop is canvas pictures of winter hunting scenes hung by string from metal poles. The stage is small. It could just hold two baby grand pianos. The only props are hand-held musical instruments.

Trevor is joined by three women—Kari Ely, Maggie Lorian and Lisa Razi—all of whom are half her age. The girls are all recent graduates of college. Ely has been with the company for four years.

"They've been at this a lot longer than I have," Trevor said. One of the challenges of being part of the group is adapting the settings it performs in. In the Theatre of the Market Place, malls and restaurants are the stages. Such places are hard on a performer's concentration.

Trevor tried out for the company, and the audition was impressive.

For Trevor, the chance to grow will hopefully lead the Mainstage someday. "Yes Yes, No, No..." will be at the St. Louis Repertory Theatre of St. Louis beginning Dec. 23. For more information, call 968-1288.

Free Christmas Day meal at Venice

By VALERIE EVENEDEN Staff writer

"Anyone in need of a meal on Christmas Day is invited to dinner," Hilton Jones, a member of Logan Street Church of Christ in Venice, said Thursday.

Church members will serve turkey, dressing, cranberries and "all the trimmings" at the Venice Senior Community Center, Brown and Klein streets, Venice, from 1 to 5 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 25.

Needy persons or those living alone in the Venice, Madison or Granite City area who will be without dinner on Christmas Day are invited to attend and eat a meal, Jones said.

No cost will be involved, but persons wishing to eat dinner are being asked to call and register their names so sufficient food will be prepared.

Reservations can be made by calling Mae Alice Jones, 451-8109 or Flossie Johnson at 871-8401.

"We want to thank Mayor (Tyron) Echols for giving us permission to use the community center. He has been very helpful," Jones said.

Nathaniel Cobb is pastor of Logan Street Church of Christ, located at 1107 Logan St., Venice.

"The true Christmas dinner is a wonderful idea and I am going to announce it in my church on Sunday," the Rev. John Henry Williams, pastor of New Salem Baptist, said Friday after learning about the project.

Youth choir singing Monday

The choir's performance at Union Station (Dec. 18) was a big success. About 100 people went there with the children," the Rev. John Henry Williams, pastor of New Salem Baptist Church, Venice, said Friday.

New Salem's 50-voice Youth Choir will also appear in concert at 7 p.m. Monday, Dec. 23, at Jamestown Mall in North St. Louis County, the minister said.

Antique Vehicle Club meets at Pere Marquette

Members and guests of the Metro-East Antique Vehicle Club traveled, in their newer cars, to the Pere Marquette Hotel in Granite City for a "Dutch treat" meal. The lodge was decorated for the holiday season and the snow made the area picturesque.

Members attending were Neal and Roberta Wells, Don and Alice Robinson, Bob and Linda Barr, Floyd and Donna Jordan and Webb and Glen Kuhn and Melvin and Wanda Eberhart. Mrs. Eberhart celebrated her birthday at the club.

The next meeting will be a potluck meal at the McCracken home Dec. 21 beginning at 5:30 p.m. Members and guests are to bring covered dishes.

For information about the club, Quad Citizens may call President Don Robinson, 872-2389, or Secretary Floyd Jordan, 931-2897.

Nick Huniak joins Koetting Ford

Jerry Koetting, owner and president of Koetting Ford Inc., 1837 Madison Ave., has announced the appointment of Nick Huniak to Koetting Ford's sales organization.

New program to aid farmers

ONEIDA - Gov. James R. Thompson has signed into law major farm legislation proposed by the administration last week.

The legislation will help farmers through the current agricultural financial crisis.

"Like most financial crises, the present one has hit our farmers hard and is part of a larger economic cycle. It was a long time in the making, having been the result of 50 years of troubled national and international agricultural policy," the governor said.

"Illinois' farmers do not have the luxury of waiting for new national policies that might favor agriculture. If we do not provide help for family farmers today, if we cannot help them through the economic upheaval being felt on farms right now, Illinois' family farms will not survive to see how it will be resolved. And a way of life born of term debt will have disappeared forever."

The legislation that I sign into law will not solve all of the problems being felt by the Illinois farmers in financial straits. But it will help many through this difficult period by providing them with financial, legal and farm management counseling, and a method for restructuring burdensome high interest, short-term debt into long-term debt at lower, less burdensome rates."

Thompson signed Senate Bill 625 into law at the Oneida Grain Co. 11. Major provisions of the law include:

"Farm Legal Assistance Act. Under the act, $750,000 is authorized for a legal assistance program to be operated through a not-for-profit corporation of the Illinois State Bar Association. Farmers will be able to choose lawyers to represent their own community or other not-for-profit lawyers for legal assistance.

"Debt Restructuring. An amendment to the Illinois Farm Development Authority Act creates a state guarantee program to restructure farmers' debts over a longer period of time at lower interest rates. The state will guarantee 85 percent of the loan, while the lending institution will be liable for 15 percent.

"Operational Loan Buy Down. The state will pay one-half of the interest on a 1986 operating loan and the farmer will be required to repay over a five-year period. There will be no interest. Only those farmers with a debt to asset ratio of 55 percent or more will be eligible for this program.

Thompson signed related farm legislation last month. House Bill 568, signed by the governor Nov. 15, contains the Farm Debt Relief Act, which allows farmers to apply for a one-time farm debt relief payment of $2,000 or 2 percent of a farmer's outstanding farm-related debts.

Farmers with a debt to asset ratio of from 55 percent to 70 percent will be required to repay the state over a five-year period. There will be no interest. Only those farmers with a debt to asset ratio of over 70 percent would not be required to repay the state. Further information about the programs is available from the Illinois Farm Development Authority at 1-217-782-5792.

In addition to the assistance provided by the Farm Debt Relief Act, HB 568, funding was provided to the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service to expand the Rural Route program to provide financial and legal information to farmers. Another $600,000 will provide financial and stress counseling for farmers through the Rural Route and the Cooperative Extension Service. Farmers can obtain more information about Rural Route by calling its hotline at 1-800-847-6883.

Senate Bill 625 also amends the Metropolitan Civic Center Support Act, making necessary technical changes so the state can proceed with the bond sale for civic center projects.

Another provision of SB 625 allows the Illinois Development Finance Authority to grant funds to employee groups for feasibility studies on assuming ownership or control of a plant.

MIKE DILLON puts up a shot in a recent Southern Illinois University basketball game. The Cougars are now 4-4 after falling to the SIU-C Salukis. All four loss have come against NCAA Division I teams.

Salukis pound Cougars, 82-65

By AL BARNES
Staff writer

CARBONDALE — Coach Larry Graham and his Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville basketball team can only hope history will repeat itself in years to come when it comes time to play the school's big brothers, the Salukis of SIU-Carbonale.

After jumping out to an 8-2 lead early in the game Wednesday night, the Cougars suddenly went cold as the weather outside and dropped their first-ever meeting with Rich Herrin's Salukis, 82-65.

The loss dropped the Cougars to 4-4 for the season, while SIUC, in Herrin's first year as coach, bettered its mark to 3-7. Herrin took over at Carbondale after posting one of the greatest prep coaching careers (at Benton) in the history of the state. Graham's Cougars were flying high going into the game after having defeated Northeast Missouri State, 79-73, Monday night.

Now, about that history repeating itself. The Cougar cagers can only hope the same thing will happen to the Salukis which happened to the Cougars after the SIUC baseball team, under the late Roy Lee, swept a doubleheader in the initial meeting between the two schools 10 years ago. After that, the Salukis got sweet revenge by beating the Cougars in the next eight encounters on the baseball field.

Wednesday, the Cougars went ice cold, but they really missed the presence of 6-8 forward Anthony Webster, who sprained his ankle in practice Tuesday. Hurting SIUC more, though, was that their ace point guard, Freddie Williams, is out with a hernia.

Steve Middleton, with 28 points, and Randy House, with 11 points, paced the winners in scoring, while the Cougars' top point makers were John Edwards (16), Jim Jappa (16) and Ken Stanley (14).

The Cougars are now idle until after the holidays. They resume action Jan. 3-4 when they travel to Dayton, Ohio, to play in the Wright State tournament. The next home game is Jan. 6 against Springhill College of Mobile, Ala.

Venice wins

Judicious 'Kizeart scored three points in overtime to help Venice squeeze out a thrilling 55-53 win over Madison Friday night in Madison.

Kizeart opened the scoring in the extra three-minute session with an 18-foot jump shot and then nailed things down for the Red Devils with a free throw with two seconds left.

The Trojans had a chance to tie the game at the buzzer, however, when Anthony Valentine's length-of-the-court pass went to Reggie Young. Young spun around 10 feet from the basket, but his shot bounced off the rim.

Venice's Mr. Everything, Jesse Hall, had an outstanding game with 26 points, including a pair of thundering slams, while Eric Jacks of Madison had a great game in defeat (25 points, 14 rebounds).

The Trojans had the best chance to win in overtime, but Ed Ware tied the game, 50-50, with a basket with 30 seconds left. Young was then at the line with three ticks left on the clock, but he missed both free throws.

The win upped Venice's mark to 5-1, while Madison dropped its second game in a row to fall to 4-3.

Meanwhile, Granite City went to 7-0 on the year with a 75-69 win at Belleville East. Chris Vizeer had 24 points and 7 rebounds for the winners while Tim Hogan added 21.

Complete details of these games will appear in the Wednesday, Dec. 25 issue of the Journal.

Holiday tourney teams set

COLLINSVILLE — 'Tis the season to trim the tree, trade holiday cheer and settle in for high school Christmas basketball tournaments.

Granite City has earned the No. 2 seed in this year's Collinsville Holiday Classic. The 16-team tournament, sponsored by Schnucks Markets, is scheduled for Dec. 26-28.

For the second year in a row the Lincoln Railsplitters have been seeded No. 1.

The tournament's other seeded teams include Jacksonville and Quincy.

Through a quirk in scheduling, two of the top four seeds have been placed in the same bracket and could face each other in the second round, assuming both win.

Granite City will play the tournament's first game on Thursday, Dec. 26 at 9 a.m. against Crystal Lake South. Should the Warriors win, they will play on Friday at 1 p.m. A loss would mean the Warriors would play at 9 a.m. on Friday.

Madison, the other Quad Cities team in the tournament, will play on Thursday at 10 a.m. against Decatur MacArthur.

Other teams entered are Collinsville, Chicago Julian, Jerseyville, Maine East, Triad, Springfield, Southeast, Griffin and Calvary and Chicago Metro.

Championship, third place and consolation games will be played on Saturday.

The Venice Red Devils will be in Columbia for a Christmas basketball tourney. Venice will meet Cardinal Ritter of St. Louis at 1 p.m. on Dec. 26.

First round winners will advance to second round action on Friday afternoon. Losers will play Friday morning in the consolation bracket.
